

ABSTRACT

An adapter for a first flush water diverter is disclosed. The adapter has a collector for receiving water from a containment area. A passage from a lower part of the collector allows water from the lower part to be directed 5 to an attachment portion which in turn is connected to the water diverter. The collector has at least one outlet for directing water to a storage tank.